THE TOPAZ

Every precious stone has its own legend—good or evil, as the case may be—and from it the stone derives a sentimental value quite apart from its intrinsic worth. The topaz is associated with a quaint bit of old Roman lore which explains why it is called the stone of gratitude.

The blind emperor Theodosius had caused a brazen go to be placed before his palace gates, where those who wished his help and advice might come and sound it, and so gain entrance to the royal presence. One day a great snake crept up to the gate and struck the go with her coils. Theodosius gave orders that no one should molest her, but that she should approach and make known her wish. The snake bent her crest in homage and told her grievance. Her nest, which was at the base of the gateway tower, had been invaded while she was absent in search of food, her nestlings killed and herself repulsed by the strange beast covered with sharp needles which now held possession of it. Would Caesar grant her justice? The emperor gave orders to have the porcupine slain, and the mother was restored to her desolate home. By nightfall the incident was forgotten by the people. The serpent had a better memory. At dawn she glided into the palace, through the spacious apartments, up stairways and through corridors until she gained the royal chamber. On the closed eyelids of the sleeping emperor she laid a gleaming topaz, and when he awoke he was no longer blind. The mother-snake had paid her debt of gratitude.

MARKET CLOSE

IS VERY STRONG

Old Dominion Makes Largest Gain—President's Letter on Railroad Situation Expected Tomorrow—Bullish Sentiment Prevails.

(By I. N. Kinsey)

GLOBE, April 1.—We wired our correspondent in Boston, Hayden, Stone & Co., for an opinion regarding general conditions, and have the following telegram: Market indications are very bullish, but we are likely to have sharp fluctuations. Recent bear raids have been ineffective. Expect railroads to go big advance within thirty days. Money conditions are more satisfactory. Moderate reaction in business probable with slow decline in price of copper to about 20 cents. Coppers have discounted any such possible decline in price of copper. Old Dominion growing in general favor. Walker's last letter extremely bullish. (Signed) Galen L. Stone.

Logan & Bryan of New York say: Market closed strong, showing quite a substantial rally. Canadian Pacific was by far the leader, selling up sharply immediately after the opening. Its movements thereafter were erratic. Undoubtedly bank statement contributed materially to early strength, but the principal item of news today was report that president would issue a long letter. Wall street professes to believe that he will modify his ideas somewhat. Trade in the late session was on a large scale and it would seem as if much of the buying was short covering. We have had a substantial rally and some easing off from this level is expected.

Paine, Webber & Co. say. Saturday's favorable bank statement and favorable news from Washington caused an early cheerful sentiment in New York and Boston markets and prices were higher all along the line. Shortly after the opening, however, considerable liquidation took place and the market reacted until within the last hour, when it was announced that the president would issue a letter to Illinois Manufacturers' association on his attitude toward railroads, which was considered to be very favorable, and prices climbed rapidly toward the close, which was about the best of the day. We look for gradual improvement on theory that liquidation has been practically thorough and the stocks have landed in stronger hands than before the panic. Easier rates for money are looked for in the next ten days.

The past few days has noted quite a demand for Superior & Boston around $2.75 to $3.00. We hear tonight that President Clynworth, who is now superintendent of the Alton and Centennial, has resigned and will come to Globe to devote his personal attention to Superior & Boston.

Calumet & Globe is a cheap buy tonight. Globe Consolidated should strike some one within a couple of weeks and an improvement in the stocks is expected.

The Inspiration Deal

Recent reports from Globe, Ariz., represent that the Inspiration Copper mines, located about twelve miles from that city have been sold for approximately $3,000,000.

It is stated that the property has gone into the possession of the Lewis-ohn interests upon the following terms: The General Development company, Adolph Lewisohn, president, and J. Parke Channing, consulting engineer, is the purchaser. The cash consideration is $1,700,000. The stockholders will ratify the deal at a meeting on April 3.

Several Denver parties are interested in the property. J. D. Coplen, an old-time Colorado miner and at one time interested in valuable mining properties in Ouray and San Juan counties, has been the manager and prime mover in the development of the Inspiration property, and to his able management and executive ability is chiefly due its development, equipment and sale. Mr. Coplen and family will probably return to Denver to make this city their future home.—Denver Mines and Mining.

SMUGGLER IN THE

TOILS OF THE LAW

Alleged Agent for Bisbee Drug House Caught While Trying to Smuggle Durable Goods Across the Line at Naco—Released on Bond.

What promises to develop into a sensation is the arrest of one Otto A. Sells, by Deputy United States Marshal Foster on last Thursday night on a charge of having smuggled goods across the international boundary line at Naco. It is rumored that the man was simply an agent for a Bisbee drug firm, which has been in the habit of smuggling dutiable goods across the line.

On Thursday afternoon Deputy United States Collector Mason at Naco ordered one of his men to place Sells under arrest and make an examination of a bundle which the man had carried across the line earlier in the day. The line rider found his man in Naco, and on examination of the bundle it was found that it contained dutiable goods, which had not been submitted to the scrutiny of the collector of the port. The duty on the drugs would have approximately amounted to $55.

Mason and his man brought Sells to Bisbee at once, and turned him over to Foster, who filed a complaint against him before United States Commissioner Stanford. The commissioner released Sells on a $500 bond and set his preliminary hearing for Monday.

It developed late that the customs officers at Naco and the deputy marshal had Sells under suspicion for some time past, and were simply awaiting the chance to catch him with the goods on him, as the man had usually worked his game in such a way that even if he were placed under arrest the officers would have been unable to prove their case. The officers also came to the conclusion that as the man was not himself engaged in the drug business on this side of the line, and as the quantity of goods he carried across was at times large, that he was in the employ of some American drug concern.

PIMA COUNTY SMLTER

CAUSES CRIMINAL SUIT

The new McGahan smelter, which was supposed to revolutionize smelting and was erected at the Ajo mining camp in Pima county, is the cause of a number of startling and sensational developments. It caused one shooting, which did not result seriously. It caused also a civil suit for $100,000, and now, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, it caused the arrest of Fred L. McGahan, the inventor, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, it being alleged that McGahan victimized persons living in Missouri, Arkansas and Texas out of $76,000 by selling worthless patent rights to a vacuum smelter.

The matter seems to be in considerable dispute. According to the St. Louis paper, it is said that McGahan agreed to put up the smelter for $11,000, but that the plant cost $33,000, according to John R. Boddie, secretary of the Cornelia Copper company. Boddie also alleged that Ed Flager, a nephew of McGahan, was shot three times while trying to remove the machinery of the plant and that a suit has been filed against the Cornelia Copper company for damages. Boddie says that the American International Vacuum Smelting company also lost $33,000.

According to the St. Louis paper, McGahan's attorney claims that McGahan is the injured party.

FORTUNE TO HIS SONS

The will of the late N. W. Bernard was filed for probate late this afternoon. The document is what is known as a non-cupative will and was made in the presence of A. C. Bernard, George Pusch and Noah C. Bernard, the oldest son.

Under the terms of the will the estate valued at $80,000 is to be divided equally among the four children. The brother, A. C. Bernard, is to receive $15,000 out of the share of the Tucson Ice & Cold Storage company. The oldest son, N. C. Bernard, is named as the executor and under the supervision of his uncle, A. C. Bernard and George Pusch.—Tucson Citizen.
